What you thought

Quality hotel in nice quiet surroundings with an amazing atmosphere and good food. Close enough to walk into Oxford along the riverside path.

Chris Jarvis

Everything was better than expected, wonderful. Meeting friends over the weekend was superb and the hotel's rooms, food and location were excellent.

John Griffiths

Get inspired in Oxford

Oxford is one of the oldest and most celebrated university cities in the world, but there are many other reasons why this beautiful city attracts over nine million visitors each year.

Oxford is also known for its museums including the Ashmolean, world famous for its art and archaeology. Another must-see is the University Museum of Natural History (above), which started life as the university's centre for scientific study but is now open to the public. You can get up close to thousands of rocks, minerals, fossils and zoological exhibits. Truly unmissable is the amazing Pitt Rivers Museum, where you'll find Japanese masks, Tahitian mourning clothes, Inuit parkas, African pottery, Hawaiian feather cloaks... The list goes on, and it's a fascinating collection, well worth a visit.

Tales of the Dales

Located in the heart of the beautiful Yorkshire Dales, Harrogate was the place to be in the 1800s, when the high society of Victorian Britain would come to take the air and enjoy therapeutic spa treatments. People come to Harrogate today for similar reasons – relaxation and indulgence, plus some quality shopping and, of course, afternoon tea!

Out and about, the Mercer Art Gallery and Royal Pump Room Museum are just a short walk from the hotel in the elegant Montpellier Quarter, the cultural heart of the town. The Grade 2 listed Valley Gardens are also nearby – well worth a visit for the charming Japanese garden.

Out of town, head to RHS Harlow Carr gardens at Beckwithshaw, where you can wander through 58 acres of tranquil beauty getting inspiration for your own green space. Local spots such as the pretty town of Knaresborough (above) and the beautiful Aysgarth Falls should be on your list and, if you're feeling energetic, a ramble in the Yorkshire Dales should satisfy your wanderlust.

Wetlands and wildlife

The Cotswold Water Park offers a quiet retreat from the outside world in a nature reserve set in the glorious countryside of the Cotswolds. The park occupies over 40 square miles and contains 180 lakes, so there are plenty of outdoor activities to keep you busy.

This stunning wetland landscape is host to tens of thousands of breeding waterbirds and an ideal spot for wildlife watching all year round. The Cotswold Lakes Trust confirmed in 2021 that a pair of Marsh Harriers had nested in the Cotswold Water Park and successfully reared chicks. This is the first time that these scarce birds of prey have been proved to breed in the area – you might even be lucky enough to see them.

What you thought

This was our first Boundless break – we thoroughly enjoyed it and are looking forward to the next one.

Mr Morton

Our first holiday after lockdown – mixing with other people was great, and we really enjoyed getting everyone together at the gala dinner.

Mrs and Mr Ware

Durham delights

A day in the city itself is not to be missed – Durham Castle has a wonderful collection of fine art, arms and armour, and the 11th-century cathedral (above) is home to the shrine of St Cuthbert and offers fine views of the city from the top of its 325-step central tower.

Further afield, near the pretty town of Middleton in Teesdale, you'll find the impressive High Force waterfall. The River Tees has been pouring into this gorge for thousands of years but the surrounding rocks are even older and date back over 300 million years.

About half an hour's drive from High Force is the medieval Raby Castle, built by the powerful Nevill Family in the 14th century and surrounded by a beautiful 200-acre deer park.

Bournemouth – the beach and beyond

Bournemouth became known as a spa destination in 18th century and Londoners flocked here when they needed to get out of the capital to recharge their batteries.

People do much the same today and the town's famous beach stretches for seven miles from Sandbanks in the east to Hengistbury Head in the west. It's a great place for a stroll and there are many attractions you can enjoy with your friends or family.

Further afield is the open-air Bournemouth Aviation Museum where you can sit in the cockpit of a 1959 Vulcan Bomber, which arrived at the museum in 2003 after long service with the RAF. The museum also pays tribute to Palmair, a local airline which began with a single flight to Palma in 1958 before going on to operate to 10 European airports until closing in 2011.

Natural Norfolk

You'll find peaceful beaches near the resort – perfect for a winter walk. Reward yourself for your exertions with a hot chocolate at a local café!

This time of year is great for seal-watching – you can see them lazing around on the beach before the pupping season starts in winter.

Interested in birdwatching? Norfolk is on the main route for many species as they migrate south to warmer climes. Look out for blackcaps, redwings, fieldfares and many more.
